

Derwent is the brand name of the UK's only manufacturer of art pencils and materials for the creative community. Part of the ACCO Brands group, our Derwent products have an international reputation for quality and we distribute across 70 countries worldwide. Established in the Lake District in 1880 due to the natural occurrence of high quality graphite, we are now located in a purpose built factory near Workington in West Cumbria, within easy reach of the national park.

We are looking for an enthusiastic graduate chemist with 2 years post graduate experience within industry, with an interest in compliance to join our Technical team. The role is responsible for meeting & maintaining all compliance and regulatory matters for Derwent including ISO requirements, product compliance, product testing across multiple countries and channels, and will also provide chemical/technical expertise as required by the R&D team in pencil manufacture and development.

Graduates in Chemistry or similar will have some knowledge of colour or paint technology, and an interest in compliance & regulatory affairs in the manufacturing industry. The successful candidate will have initiative, flair and energy. They will be adaptable and enjoying working as part of a small team. Full training will be given.
